

Giulia Olivero

Jeb E. Brooks School of Public Policy
Cornell University
Ithaca, NY 14850

go94@cornell.edu
607-379-3205

Education

Cornell University, Ph.D. Student in Policy Analysis and Management	2018 -
Master of Science in Economics and Social Sciences Bocconi University	2014 - 2017
Bachelor of International Economics, Management and Finance Bocconi University	2011 - 2014
University of British Columbia, undergraduate exchange program	2014

Research Interests

Labor economics, gender economics, economics of immigration and family

Research Experience

Research Assistant, Matt Hall, Cornell University	2021-ongoing
Research Assistant, D.Miller E.Patacchini, Cornell University	2020-2021
Research Assistant, Doug Miller, Cornell University	Summer 2020
Research Assistant, Doug Miller, Cornell University	Summer 2019
Research Assistant, Massimo Anelli, Bocconi University	2017 - 2018
Research Assistant, Fernando Vega-Redondo, Bocconi University	2016 - 2018

Teaching Experience

Teaching Assistant, Cornell University PADM 5310, Applied Multivariate Statistics, Professor Doug Miller	Spring 2021
Teaching Assistant, Cornell University PADM 5310, Applied Multivariate Statistics, Professor Doug Miller	Spring 2020
Teaching Assistant, Cornell University PAM 2250, Social Problems in the US, Professor Peter Rich	Fall 2019

Work in Progress

- “Gender wage gap and the Child Penalty” [JMP]
- “Occupational Segregation, Gender, and Career Choices” with A.Cools, E.Patacchini and N.Szembrot
- “The Localized Context of Being Undocumented: Variation in Economic Outcomes for Unauthorized Workers across U.S. Labor Markets” with M. Hall
- “Intergenerational consequences of incentivizing women’s work during WWII” with N. Jha, M. Welch and R. Suryanarayana

“Event Study Approach: guide to choice of a reference period” with D. Miller
“The effect of local government participation in detecting tax evasion” with Chiara Lacava

Fellowships, Grants, Honors & Awards

PAM Outstanding Teaching Assistant Award	Summer 2022
PAM 3620, Population Controversies in Europe
Cornell Population Center (CPC) small grant	2020
PAM Outstanding Teaching Assistant Award	Spring 2020
PADM 5310, Applied Multivariate Statistics, Professor Doug Miller

Department Service (Cornell University)

Organizers of PIERS (Presentations in Emerging Research Seminar Series)	2019 - 2020
Graduate Students in Policy Analysis and Management

Affiliations

Cornell Population Center

Programming Skills

Proficient with Stata, Basic knowledge of R, Python and Matlab
Experience with LaTeX

Others:

Italian citizenship, I have Special Sworn Status

References

Doug L. Miller (chair)
School of Public Policy, and Department of Economics
Cornell University
dml336@cornell.edu

Eleonora Patacchini
Department of Economics
Cornell University
ep454@cornell.edu

Seth Sanders
Department of Economics
Cornell University
ss3977@cornell.edu